

Chapter three

Quiana was getting for the book signing. She started to go through boxes of old things when she came across a notebook. What's this, she thought. She looked through the pages of the book and realized that this is one of her school notebooks. She ran across the note that she wrote in school and remembered who she was writing the note about- Donnie- the same Donnie that hit her with the football in high school.

Wow, this is a note from a long time ago; I can't believe I am just reading this. I wonder what Donnie is up to now. Should I send this to him and let him know how I feel? What are the chances that he will read it? I guess I can give it a try, she thought.

She took a pen and paper and wrote:

Dear Donnie:

I know you probably don't know who this but I thought I should write this. Remember the girl in high school that was reading a book and you threw a football by mistake and landed in my lap. Well, it's me, Quiana. I am writing to see how you are doing and let you know that I am a successful writer. I am a writer of romance novels, if you can believe it. I wanted to let you know that back in high school I had a crush on you. I am about to get ready to for a book signing for my new book A whisper for love. I hope you are doing well and hope you are doing well.

Sincerely,

Quiana

She took the letter and placed in an envelope. She put a stamp on it and placed it near the door for the mailman. She heard a knock on the door. Hi, Scott, she said with a smile. What are you doing here?

I came over and was wondering if you would like to go to lunch with me.

What is with you-you come over yesterday for a visit and lunch today. What is going on with you?

I can't surprise my girlfriend with a lunch date.

No, it's not that I don't like to have lunch with you; I am so busy with the book signing and get everything together.

I understand, but you do need to eat so I will treat you to lunch.

Alright, let me change, she tells Scott as she goes up the stairs. Can you give the mailman that envelope when he comes? Thanks.

Scott walks over and sees the letter at the door. He looks at the envelope and thought, who is Donnie. He waits to see if Quiana is coming down but hears the shower running. He opens the letter and reads the letter. He starts to get angry and looks at the letter. Scott tears up the letter and throws it in the trash.

What will Quiana do when she sees Donnie for the first time- find out in chapter 4 of the one that got away almost?